

Harrie Cannon
New Hall 1996
Disability Advisory Team Manager and
Autism Specialist,
University of Leeds.

Harrie Cannon is a Disability Advisory Team Manager and Autism Specialist at the University of Leeds. She has worked in the Higher Education sector for over 10 years, supporting students with a range of disabilities and conditions. Harrie is a member of the Higher Education Disability Network and has been involved in several projects aimed at improving the accessibility of the University of Leeds. She is also a member of the University of Leeds Disability Advisory Team and has been instrumental in the development of the University's Accessibility Statement.

Harrie Cannon is a Disability Advisory Team Manager and Autism Specialist at the University of Leeds. She has worked in the Higher Education sector for over 10 years, supporting students with a range of disabilities and conditions. Harrie is a member of the Higher Education Disability Network and has been involved in several projects aimed at improving the accessibility of the University of Leeds. She is also a member of the University of Leeds Disability Advisory Team and has been instrumental in the development of the University's Accessibility Statement.

Harrie Cannon is a Disability Advisory Team Manager and Autism Specialist at the University of Leeds. She has worked in the Higher Education sector for over 10 years, supporting students with a range of disabilities and conditions. Harrie is a member of the Higher Education Disability Network and has been involved in several projects aimed at improving the accessibility of the University of Leeds. She is also a member of the University of Leeds Disability Advisory Team and has been instrumental in the development of the University's Accessibility Statement.

Harrie Cannon is a Disability Advisory Team Manager and Autism Specialist at the University of Leeds. She has worked in the Higher Education sector for over 10 years, supporting students with a range of disabilities and conditions. Harrie is a member of the Higher Education Disability Network and has been involved in several projects aimed at improving the accessibility of the University of Leeds. She is also a member of the University of Leeds Disability Advisory Team and has been instrumental in the development of the University's Accessibility Statement.

